“Three years ago I was searching for a meaningful organization to devote my time and resources to when I came across an article about the CAC in the Alton Telegraph. I contacted a friend of mine who was and still is a current board member to gather more information about the Center. My wife and I love children especially now that we have we have two of our own, so learning about the CAC was music to my ears. I then met Carrie Cohan and was amazed at what I saw and heard in learning about how many children’s lives are affected and improved by the CAC. In learning some of the testimonials and the number of child abuse cases in Madison County, I knew that the CAC was the meaningful organization and cause that I was looking for. Its mission to the greater good of children in their everyday lives is what drew me to the Center and I am absolutely honored to be a member of the CAC Friends Board and I hope I can continue to help make a difference in children’s lives.” –Travis Widman
